MUST GIVE CORRECT AGE, SAYS HEAD OF STATE SELECTIVE SERVICE

Captain Thomas W. White, State Director of Selective Service for Virginia, stated today that many local boards throughout the state are faced with the problem of boys coming in to register and giving an incorrect date of birth. While this is due to ignorance in some cases, in many other cases it is felt that a deliberate falsification is made to secure a Registration Certificate and use the date of birth shown thereon to secure a work permit or for other reasons.

A considerable amount of work is necessary on the part of the local board clerk when a person registers, and an additional amount is added by cancellation of an improper registration, even though no classification action is taken.

Captain White pointed out that the Universal Military Training and Service Act, as amended, provides penalties up to five years imprisonment or a fine of $10,000, or both, for being a party to making a false, improper, or incorrect registration, or for a person having in his possession any certificate which he knows to be falsely made.

"While we hope that such drastic action will not be necessary," said Captain White, "when one local board reports 231 cancelled cases, a large majority of which were cancelled as underage, we feel that persons concerned should be aware of the severe penalties provided for giving false information to their Selective Service boards."

Captain White also pointed out that persons required to be registered who do not register within five days after reaching the age of 18 subject themselves to certain penalties provided for under the Universal Military Training and Service Act, as amended, including five years in prison or a fine of $10,000, or both.

Baseball practice is now under way at Appomattox High School.

Over 200 friends and relatives attended the golden wedding celebration of Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas Childers at their home Sunday afternoon, between the hours of 2:00 and 5:00 o'clock. The golden motif was carried out in every detail. Lovely arrangements of yellow rose rubs, gladiolii and jonquils were used to decorate the lower floor of the spacious and hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Childers.

A three-tiered wedding cake was served the guests along with punch and other delicacies, from the lace covered dining table. Assisting the honorees in caring for the guests were their seven children: Mrs. W. M. Slusher, A. T. Childers, W. C. Childers and Carroll C. Childers, all of Lynchburg; G. D. Childers, Mrs. B. C. Childers and Mrs. R. L. Pillow, of Appomattox County.

Mrs. Childers was the former Miss Elizabeth Ferguson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Ferguson.

The celebrants were married on March 26, 1905 at Mt. Herman Methodist Church. The officiating minister was the late Rev. H. W. Dunkley.

Many lovely gifts, in keeping with the occasion, were showered on Mr. and Mrs. Childers.

INSECT SURVEY SHOWS DAMAGE

This is the time of year when the going begins to get rough in man's continual battle against insects.

As of last week, this is the way the situation looked in Virginia to Arthur P. Morris, associate entomologist at VPI.

Green June beetle larvae are active in pastures in Greensville and Surry, and are causing damage to lawns in Princess Anne and Norfolk. The beetle larvae likely will cause severe damage to pasture this year.

Requests for control recommendations for the meadow spittlebug have already been received this season, and are available from county agents.

Bulb mites are troublesome on jonquils in Southampton. Control tips are available from county agents.

The southern pine beetle caused severe tree-killing in Virginia in 1954, and unless infestations are reduced by natural control factors, losses are expected to continue this year. Additional buildup of beetle populations likely will occur in trees blown down during Hurricane Hazel.

Japanese beetle populations will be up this year, if grub counts in small diggings in southeastern Virginia are any indication.

There wasn't much trouble from stored grain insects through February in the southeastern counties, but activity will soon increase Damage probably won't be significant until the middle or last part of May.

It's time, too, to worry about termites. They will become more active as the season gets warmer. There are several references on control. Ask your county agent.

Sheep scabies are severe on sheep on one farm in Grayson.

Morris explains that his weekly round-up of insect activity in Virginia is based on reports from county agents and other professional agricultural workers. Farmers can help keep the round-up complete and correct by reporting to their county agents any damage by insects.

Appomattox is a growing town.

Seek Women Marines in Enlistment Drive

With women invading nearly every field of what was formerly a masculine endeavor., is there anything exclusive left for the men? Gals keep making more dents into "manly" vocations, and now adventure in living no longer belongs solely to the "stronger" sex.

Consider the weather man, or what used to be the man. Now it can be the weather girl, particularly in the Women Marines, where girls enlisting today can apply for training as forecasters.

Nearly one-half the enlisted forecasters at a huge West Coast Marine Air Station's aerology department are attired in the forest green serge of the Women Marines. Other women perform similar duties at bases on the Eastern seaboard.

Forecasters launch weather balloons, work on weather plotting maps and help evaluate reports from over 500 weather stations. To competently assist Leatherneck pilots in planning route above or around bad atmospheric conditions the Women Marines need adequate training. This they get from attending an intensified course at an aerographers school in Lakehurst, N. J.

This and other highly specialized jobs with the Women Marines can interest women high school graduates under 31 who are looking for interesting occupations. Marine officials say that now is the ideal time to enter the Women Marines, and participate in the "Adventure of Living."

Only this month the headquarters for recruiting in this five-state area launched the "Adventure in Living" campaign. Colonel John R. Lanigan, Director of the 5th Marine Corps Reserve and Recruitment District, with headquarters in Arlington, Va., said that although men applicants must go on waiting lists in many instances, billets for newly enlisted Women Marines are open immediately.

Master Sergeant Moore, of the Lynchburg Recruiting Office announced the hours young women may appear—without obligation — for interviews as possible applicants for the Women Marines. The Marine Recruiting Office located on the Third Floor of the Post Office Building, Lynchburg, wil be open from 8:00 A. M. to 4:30 P. M. Monday through Friday of each week, and from 8:00 A. M. to 11:30 A. M. on Saturdays.
